Neil joined the ILC as our Chief Executive Officer in February 2022. He has been involved in the charity sector since 2005 in various senior roles including business development, project management and change management. His last role was as deputy CEO for a Bristol based charity helping young vulnerable adults to live independent lives. Prior to his career in the charity sector, Neil spent several years working for a national newspaper where, as commercial manager, he had responsibility for leading large IT transformation projects.

In his spare time he enjoys walking, particularly exploring the south coast and their wonderful beaches with his wife and dog.
